

Attevo and Avolve Software sign strategic agreement to deliver advanced automation products and services in North America, United Kingdom

Companies to focus on electronic plan solutions featuring Avolve's ProjectDox collaboration software and Attevo integration services

Scottsdale, Arizona - August 2, 2007

Avolve Software Corporation, an emerging market leader in electronic plan check and review solutions, and Attevo, a global business and information technology consulting firm, today announced a strategic partner agreement, whereby the companies will deliver advanced automation products and services in the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada.

The agreement makes Attevo the preferred implementation and reselling partner of ProjectDox, Avolve's collaboration management solution, which has been steadily gaining market share as the leading electronic plan check and review system for government jurisdictions in the U.S. This agreement extends Avolve's ability to fast track custom implementations and offer advanced system integrations to customers and prospects.

"We've recognized the win-win potential of this relationship and are very excited to move forward with Attevo," said Ron Loback, President and CEO of Avolve. "By partnering with Attevo, we have expanded our sales channel, more than doubled our services delivery capacity and positioned ProjectDox for greater customer value – all in one stroke. Attevo's capabilities in our niche market are second to none," he added.

Attevo has extensive experience working with local jurisdictions, designing and deploying complex IT applications, providing project management and systems integration programming.

"Attevo understands the challenges associated with document collaboration by government agencies and stakeholders in the architecture, planning, building and permitting process," said John Frankovich, Partner and Director of Attevo North America. "Attevo's relationship with Avolve fits with our strategy for developing and extending intellectual capital around software so that we can bring valuable solutions to market. Our experience with government and AEC clients shows us that solutions like ProjectDox make a tremendous difference in their efficiency and ability to collaborate more effectively."
